Re: SOL-40297-13-RV2-IN
Respondent submission per Paragraph 8 of the Order.

It should be noted that I am not a trained legal practitioner but I am a named respondent in this matter and have Agency Authorization already on file. I am thus acting as the Tenant's Representative.

The respondents see no need to re-open SOL-40297-13. We disagree with the applicant's claim that serious errors were made and do not believe hearing this L5 Application a third time will bring anything new or beneficial to this already ancient file.

Balcony Rail and Concrete Repairs

The essential facts have remained consistent in this item from the beginning.

1. The applicant has relied almost exclusively upon an engineering report from 2008 (Their tab 3).
2. The work recommended in that report was completed during extensive renovations commissioned by TransGlobe in 2010.
3. The applicant has presented no evidence that after the work done in 2010 the balcony system remained in poor condition or continued to violate any law, by-law or regulation.

It has to be obvious that after the 2010 work significantly altered the condition of the balconies, the 2008 engineering report no longer represents their condition and thus can not be relied upon to prove anything.

The applicant is claiming that Mr Guzina made a serious error in law by not referencing local bylaws in his legal examination. But the applicant also failed to present any credible evidence showing the balconies remained in violation of any ordinance after the major overhaul they received in 2010. By failing to present credible evidence of a continuing violation they gave him no reason to consult any other by-law or regulation.

An AGI application may have been justified after the 2010 refurbishments but certainly not after doing a pointless repeat of the previous renovations in 2012. None the less, the applicant decided to go ahead without obtaining further engineering reports or inspection notices and thus ended up disallowing their own claim of Eligible Capital Expenditure under the Residential Tenancy Act's part 126 (S.O. 2006, C. 17, the "RTA").

In his January 2016 finding and order, Mr. Guzina correctly observed that the main impetus for the 2012 round of noise and filth was primarily that of replacing the balcony railings. In respondent testimony I submitted evidence of eighteen other buildings all redone in the same way, at about the same time. The balcony work done in 2012 was, in fact, part of the cosmetic makeover of a large number of their buildings in some ill conceived corporate branding scheme and no evidence exists to suggest otherwise.

Building Exterior Coating

They painted a building who's exterior skin is ceramic glazed brick. Not only is this a mistake since practically nothing bonds to the ceramic surface, it was unnecessary because the ceramic surface is impervious to water and requires little or no maintenance, as shown in the respondent submissions.

Painting the building exterior served no structural purpose. Our already submitted images show that like the tinted glass balcony rails, this was part of a cosmetic makeover done mostly to provide a consistent appearance for Starlight's buildings.

Interior Common Area Painting

This like the other items in question is simply cosmetic in nature. The applicant's claim was that it was necessary to repaint the hallways and lobby and in their review request further claimed it was due to repairs on the walls and doorways. In the October 2015 hearing, the applicant tendered no evidence of structurally significant repairs being performed. Further; the respondents did not observe any such repairs.

Absent repairs to the structure of the interior common areas, the upkeep of paint becomes a maintenance item that should not be considered an Eligible Capital Expenditure. A couple of scratched doors or patches of dirty wall do not justify a $32,000 claim, they justify a maintenance work order.

It should also be noted that the second picture in tab 6, (the one with the lights in it) is not a picture of a hallway wall. It is in fact a photo of the 9th floor ceiling turned sideways. The damage evident in that photo is from a leaking roof and neither that ceiling nor the roof have been repaired to this day.

Retaining Wall Painting

First it should be noted that the very best way to prevent paint from peeling off of concrete is to simply stop painting it.

Again the applicant submitted no evidence of structural repair to this exterior wall section. Thus, the paint application was for appearance only, making this a cosmetic "clean up" of the wall that disqualifies it as an Eligible Capital Expenditure, under the RTA and it's regulations.

The Big Picture

As I pointed out in my testimony both in the first Review hearing (February 2015) and in the de novo hearing (September 2015), there is a procedural bias built into the RTA's part 126 that, unless guarded against, can and likely does have a strong impact upon the outcome of these proceedings.

The matter that a landlord is not required to notify tenants of an impending Capital Expenditure for which the landlord intends to file an L5 application coupled with the unfortunate fact that the process of doing the associated work ends up destroying any evidence a respondent may submit to a hearing places the respondent tenants at a profound disadvantage. This in turn produces a very powerful bias in favour of the landlord who has every opportunity to gather documentation, photographs and other things in support of their claims. Most often the applicant landlord ends up winning simply because the respondent tenants find themselves unable to counter the applicant's claims.

Based on available information, it is this respondent's belief that the applicant has repeatedly capitalized on this innate bias, pushing through numerous L5 applications where the bulk of their claims most likely should have been denied.

Already in evidence are before and after images of our building, as well as images of eighteen other buildings that were made over in an indisputably similar fashion. Since the October 2015 hearing I have continued this line of investigation, backtracking from addresses, and can now tell you they have done this at least ninety four times, including the eighteen buildings already in evidence. (See, "Starlight Makeovers", attached)

On strength of repetition it becomes apparent this is a "playbook" of high value renovations enacted whenever Starlight Investments takes over a building. The game goes like this: Take possession of a building, immediately change the toilets, paint the hallways and lobby, redo the balconies, paint the building and then file an L5 AGI application under a subsidiary (read: "shell") company name.

We are, thus, left with powerful questions about the justification of these renovations as Eligible Capital Expenditures under the RTA's part 126. A little common sense would tell us that as a successor in title to TransGlobe, who also followed a very similar playbook, it is highly unlikely that Starlight somehow came into possession of eighteen buildings that all required the exact same renovations at the same time. When we further realize they've done this nearly one hundred times suspicion turns to incredulity. It has to be obvious that very few of those buildings actually needed renovations at that level. I will even suggest it is reasonable to conclude none of them did.

With information obtained from the Federation of Metro Tenant's Associations (FMTA), localized tenant organizations and even Starlight's own employees, I have reason to believe that almost all of the buildings on the Starlight Makeover list had AGIs and Starlight has become very accustomed to getting pretty much whatever they ask for, either through mediation or in unopposed tribunals.

Nearly a hundred times.

Summation

The respondents find no fault in the conduct of the September 17th, 2015 hearing. Mr Guzina listened to arguments from both sides, accepted evidence as tendered, appropriately corrected me on a couple of mistakes and then deliberated at length before issuing his order on January 22nd, 2016. In fact, this respondent will submit that of the growing number of tribunals we've attended, this was the most procedurally fair hearing to date.

In his findings and order Mr Guzina followed the evidence, interpreted the law as necessary and reached decisions based upon the testimony before him. While I may not agree with all of his decisions, I can find no fault in his method and analysis when reaching them.

The applicant's claim that Mr Guzina committed serious errors in law is clearly ill conceived. The fact is that through poor preparation and lack of supporting evidence, the applicants gave him no reason to look beyond that which was already before him.

The burden of proof is supposed to be on the applicant. Mr Guzina kept it there and correctly deduced that the applicants simply had not presented a winning case.

Given the huge number of times this has been played out in other tribunals all across Ontario, we can easily see this review request is little more than mewling from the proverbial spoiled brat caught with his hand in the cookie jar. Caught at their game.

Moreover; this respondent will submit that the applicant and it's parent company, Starlight Investments, has engaged in a province wide abuse of the Landlord and Tenant Board and the Residential Tenancy act, maliciously using the procedural biases of part 126 to push through numerous L5 applications where, if our building is any indication, the justification of Eligible Capital Expenditures is clearly questionable.

The applicant's review request must not be granted.
